Life After Theranos

Tyler Shultz went to Theranos to change medicine. But when he got there, he found that the company's products – blood tests that could be given without needles – didn't work as advertised. He eventually alerted state regulators and journalists to the problems. Now Theranos, once valued at $9 billion, is struggling. Shultz will tell us what he learned, and what he's doing now.

The Secrets Of The Universe

Physics is making strides at understanding everything from smallest elementary particles to the makeup of other planets – and whether there are things living on them. A panel of the top minds in the field explain these mysteries, including Sabrina Pasterski, who, at age 24, has already been cited by Stephen Hawking.
